Research and Resources: Introducing an Inspiring Anglican-Orthodox Text

Witnessing Together focuses on preaching the good news of Jesus. In Walking Together, global Anglican leaders have developed and published three collections of challenging and enriching papers. These books are available to order from Amazon, with the option of ordering them from within your own region of the Anglican Communion.

Three collections of challenging and enriching papers from across the Anglican Communion are now available on the TEAC website. They are from the second TEAC webinar in April 2021, which included discussions on the theological presuppositions of Anglican spirituality and the role of women in ministry.

Global Anglican Perspectives on Environmental Challenges and Human Perspectives

In the second part of Global Anglican Perspectives on Environmental Challenges and Human Perspectives, we explore the ongoing, dynamic process of divine revelation according to the divine image when exercising 'dominion' (Gen 1.28) as 'arbitrary and tyrannical 'priesthood' (p. 16; cf. ICAODT 2015, p. 45).

The theological perspective of the Anglican Communion offers a unique and valuable contribution to the global conversation on environmental challenges. This agreed text published in 2020 is available at this link (Section 2.15,19,26,29; Ps 121.7-8; Jer 2.7). Because the meaning of human life is to collaborate with God, as 'humility in self-giving service' (p.16; cf. ICAODT 2015, p. 45).

As they wrote in 2015, 'In the second part, yet to be developed, we are looking forward to continuing this conversation and exploring the task of developing specific themes within it. The commission, of which I was a member, took on this challenge, and I believe that the text that has emerged is a significant contribution to the ongoing dialogue on the relationship between faith and the environment.'

The Anglican-Orthodox agreement on 'Perspectives on Reconciliation' was signed in 2008, and the text was published in 2010. The agreement is a result of the Anglican-Orthodox dialogue on the relationship between faith and the environment. It is a significant contribution to the ongoing dialogue on the relationship between faith and the environment.

The agreement has been signed by the heads of the Anglican and Orthodox diaspora communities in the Americas, another in Oceania and another in Europe and the Middle East. The webinars will be available in English, French and other languages.
